

News from the STATES

VIRGINIA

Hollin Hills Civic Association

With wisdom, enthusiasm, and an unmistakable dedication to the well-being and education of children, the volunteers of the Hollin Hills Civic Association devote many hours a week to tutorial help in their neighborhood school, Hollin Meadows Elementary.

The Hollin Hills Community-based volunteers have been making a difference in the lives of the students that attend their neighborhood school, for fifteen years. Mrs. Bobbie Seligmann, the Volunteer Coordinator, is a tireless recruiter. Mrs. Seligmann is always on the look-out for community members that are willing to offer their tutorial help to the students. One can often hear Mrs. Seligmann exclaiming, "You just don't realize how much of a difference you can make in the life of a child, until you try it!" Few would disagree with this sentiment, we all know this to be basically true. When it comes to educating our youth, these volunteers will plan and collaborate with the necessary staff members of the school to genuinely support the student's efforts. Recently, a fourth grade student had these words to say about his mentor of three years, "Mrs. Ginsburg taught me how much fun reading is. She pushes me to different heights to read. Mrs. Ginsburg is a good friend to me and a teacher."

Photo Courtesy of Hollin Hills Civic Association

Our Hollin Hills Community Volunteers truly delight in celebrating the successes of their neighborhood school.

For more information, contact Glenna C. Orr at glennaorr@comcast.net.

